GENERAL NOTICES.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of despairing patients can testify. A trustworthy medical writer says: "Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but most of the remedies in general use by physicians afford but temporary benefit. A cure caunot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes." Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient

THEY WILL FIGHT. The Chinese Ask that the Mexican Doo be Left Open.

San Francisco, April 30th .- On the arrival of the China, which is expected shortly, it is possible that a test will be made in the United States Courts regarding the constitutionality of Secretary Windom's recent order. As permission to go to Mexico will be refused, an early test of the order may be expected.

Collector Phelps is inclined to the belief that if the ruling is allowed to stand, it will not be long before direct communication will be made between China and Mexico.

"How does the ruling affect Chinese pas engers in transit to British Columbia?" 'I cannot answer that question positively," said the Collector, "but I expect to have official notice about Chinese going to ports in British Columbia, and am inclined to the belief that the rulin will affect persons in transit to that part of the coast as well as to Mexico. Should any Chinese be on the China bound for Victoria, and I receive no information from the department, I shall not be able to prevent them being transferred. However, I feel certain that the information will reach here before the arrival of the China. My nstructions from the department regarding passengers to Mexico have only reached me by telegraph, but I shall refuse to transfer any Chinese persons to steamers

STRIKING MOLDERS. Interview with Mr. Lewis of the Archi tectural Foundry. SAN FRANCISCO, April 30th .- The striking moiders profess to be greatly encouraged this morning by the withdrawal of several helpers from the Risdon Iron Works, and consider this fact as indicating that the founders are discouraged at the quality of the work which is being turned out of their establishments by the non-union men whom they have imported from the East.

Colonel Taylor, Superintendent of the Risdon, says, however, that the men who were dismissed were acting as emissaries for the Molders' Union, and were exerting themselves to spread dissension amount he themselves to spread dissension among the molders who were at work in the shops, and trying to influence them to leave. Portland Labor. PORTLAND, April 30th .- The situation of the strike now, to all appearances, has not changed, but it is known that, sub rosa, a movement is on foot among the work-ingmen to form a Contractors' Association composed of many of the most responsible and efficient strikers, and that by Friday morning the new arrangement will declare itself ready for operations. The action of the builders in attempting to form a com-bination with the millmen and wholesale furnishers of shop stuffs and paints and oils is denounced in the most scathing terms by all union workingmen.

Slightly Mixed. VISALIA, April 30th .- The city government affairs here are likely to be in a muddle. About three weeks ago the Democrats met and concluded to put up a straight ticket for city officers. Not enough Republicans could be mustered to oppose this with a similar ticket, as most of them fa-vored a mixed Citizens' ticket. Better counsels prevailed, and a Citizens' ticket was nominated last Saturday night. Last evening a number of disgruntled Democrats held a secret session, organized into a Jacksonian Club and nominated another ticket to suit the dissatisfied of their party. Now, half those nominated on the Citizens' ticket intend resigning. These are inalienable rights. The concession of the first carries with it admission of the other. So in fact it may be said that this whole question is to be adjusted as are all contracts, by the agreement of the parties to it-that is to say, what the employer is willing or able to pay for labor; what the worker is willing to take for his labor. These are the essential factors of the issue. and we believe that they will work out its solution. Historically it is true that the hours of labor have been shortened in the last half of the century, and in every will adjourn him in November next. That instance by peaceful means and without is not witty. Let us have something

If the agitation results in the betterment of the condition of the wage-earners moving in the matter, there will be no true friend of humanity who will regret the outcome. The real question of debate is, therefore, whether such a result can follow, and we repeat that only by experience will the two parties to the issue be convinced; it is not, therefore, perhaps, to be regretted that the issue has been projected at this time, since the sooner it is settled the better for industrial and man-without lessening the wages therefore means increased cost of production by means increased cost of production by labor, and increased cost to the consumer, since we may take it for granted that the very best the workers can accomplish, they cannot shear capital of an appreciable share more of its earnings, as it is now receiving, by from 80 to 90 per cent. less from the product of labor, than the share received back by labor. Admitting that there is not now enough labor for all capable of earning wages, it follows that either the present workers must share with their fellows, or the employers of labor must bear the loss of the increased number to be employed without proportional decrease of the wages. But this they declare they will not do, and that if additional charge is made in the cost of production, the consumer must meet it. Since the body of workers in the land constitute the greater body of consumers, it would follow that they will bear their share of the increased cost of production, and hence really suffer some depreciation of wages, and those of them who do not lose sight of the fact that they are consumers as well as producers, freely admit this. But they add that there will be gain in the increased capacity of the worker to produce in eight hours as a total span more than in eight hours where ten is the full working day, and that the intellectual and domestic gain will compensate for any increased cost of living.

Probably there is in this an element of truth, but it is scarcely possible that it greater body of consumers, it would follow

Probably there is in this an element of truth, but it is scarcely possible that it will materially affect the settlement of the question. Most thoughtful writers upon the capacity of workers agree, that well and diligently improved, eight or nine hours are sufficient for any human being to labor out of the twenty-four. And it may be admitted that if the whole social system had been adjusted upon that basis there would not have been any material difference between the social and industrial conditions under that system and those prevailing under the present. The thoughtful writers upon the groom, a diamond earlings from the groom, a diamond pin from his mother and an elegant diamond pin from his mother and an elegant diamond baselet from Charles Conover. As shown by one of their own number, it will add nany thousands of dollars annually to their profits. Then, also, those wealthy and medium well-to-do gentlemen and ladies of our city, with their children and friends, when they take their daily drives in their fine carriages and phaetons, instead of dragging them through bog and mire and chuckholes, will have delightfully mooth and even driveways, which, besides affording the comfort and pleasure of such drives, will save much expense in the line of repairs, painting, etc., of their carriages. of repairs, painting, etc., of their carriages. Even the poor workingmen will, to some degree, be benefited, for what man among them would not take pride in the appearance of the city with such streets. It is true he would derive no profit from the improvement, as the merchant would, nor would he enjoy riding over the pavement, not being able to keep a horse, or even hire one; but the improvement would enhance the value of his little cottage home (this, however, would increase his taxes a little), and save him from the din and rattle of the noisy street, and he could enjoy seeing his wealthier neighbors riding over such actively into the forum of public debate entertained that violence, intimidation and the assault of the boycott with force,

When great strike or labor agitation disturbs same rate as those who, through the improvement, add so many dollars to their and unsettles the business conditions of the country the mass of the people who acomes, and those who are able to secure the enjoyment it affords other than that of perity is not assailed, emphatically and

Let us suppose the city decides to issue bonds for $100,000 to be applied to paying one-fourth of the expense, as proposed, and suppose the cost to be $1 per front foot. Now, Smith and Jones are neighbors, each owning a 40-foot lot, and each will be ssessed exactly the same ($30) for paving the street, the city paying the other $10. Smith has a $1,000 house on his lot, and ones has a $4,000 house on his, with a staole for his carriage and pair in the rear Smith is a common laborer, earning $600 per year. Jones is in the dry goods busi ness, making $6,000 per year. Smith never enjoys a ride on the pavement, for he has no horse, while Jones rides out every ever-ing with his family. Smith's wages remain the same after as before the improvement. Jones' business brings him a greatly

Does it look right that these two men should be assessed equally for this im-provement? I would say let those who reap the financial gains pay a far greater rate of assessment than those who are ber ited only by the appearance of the city. and let those who enjoy the pleasure by derive no profit pay a medium rate. The argument that the improvement enhances the value of property is not appli-cable to the workingman, unless he is a vealthy workingman, with a number o city lots for sale, on which he is specular ing. The man who is toiling day after day, month after month, year after year, to clear his little home from a heavy mortgage, certainly cannot be expected to be very enthusiastic about laying a pavement in front of it for his wealthy neighbors to enjoy and the merchants to profit by.

Yet the poor man is not so envious tha he would grudge the payment of a fair as-sessment in order that his neighbors may enjoy and profit by the improvement, and he is willing to admit that he also would be benefited, more perhaps than would first appear, for everything that is delivered at his home for his consumption must be carted there over the streets, and it is very clear that this carting will be less costly over paved streets than through mud an mire. Undoubtedly there are extremely few who would oppose street improvement if the expense were equitably adjusted ac-cording to wealth and the benefits derived This, it may be argued, would be an intrithat nothing more obtruse than a problem in general average would be encountered. mathematics, calculus, least squares, or even some of the nicer, finer, hair-splitting sciences, I think Sacramento can produc scholars who are equal to the emergency The matter could easily enough be ad usted, if we want to do it, but if we don't t will be very hard to see through. EDS RECORD-UNION: I note with pleasure a communication in this morning's RECORD-UNION from General Martine, suggesting a tree-planting committee of ladies of this city to be formed for the purpose of Park. This is an excellent idea, but not a new one; for, while East last summer I found in several cities-notably, Boston, been done around historical spots. it was a very pleasant sight to see so many trees of different kinds blending so beautifully together, and I can see no good reason why this cannot be carried out successfully here if once begun. But a word more before I close. If some of us should begin this worthy work, and it should be completed, and about this time we should find that enough money could not be raised to buy he property, or that the owner refused to sell, what would become of all our work? French Henriettas.

ADVERTISEMENT OF HALE BROS. & CO.

Our line of ALL-WOOL FRENCH HENRIETTAS at 00 cents a yard are finely finished, and have that peculiar luster which distinguish the best imported goods, as they are. A great many goods pass as Henriettas without a title to that name. The sheen is deceptivesimply mere calendaring. They spot, they slip, and soon show their worthlessness, after a little wear. The Henriettas we bring to your attention are reliable. We can recommend them as one of the best values in the stock. Price, 90 Cents. The following shades:

FREEMAN CONVICTED OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE.

tives Distressed.

The trial of Charles Freeman for the murder of Mark Feeney was concluded in Judge Van Fleet's Department of the Superior Court yesterday, and resulted in his conviction. The forenoon was taken up by the closing argument of District Attorney Bruner, which was one of the ablest that has been heard in a criminal case in this county in many years. He told the jury, among other things, that he had conducted the prosecution to the best of his ability and presented it in its strongest ability and presented it in its strongest light, according to his convictions of justice.

He believed Freeman to be guilty of the label in the outskirts of town, and the crime charged against him, and should suffer the highest penalty known to the law. He had certainly done all in his power to secure the vindication of the law. and the responsibility for the result would rest upon the jury.

Mr. Bruner warned the jury against giving away to any weak sentimentality that would defeat the ends of justice in this case, as the circumstances under which the crime was committed were such that the perpetrator thereof was not entitled to the sympathy of any person whose desire was to have the majesty of the law vindicated.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bruner's address a recess was taken till 2 o'clock P. M., at which hour the Court-room was densely packed with people, there being several ladies among the auditors. The prisoner occupied a seat in front of the bar, between his mother and sister, while the Court charged the jury. His manner was that of a person possessed of nerves of iron, or, more properly, perhaps, of one to firm of Brewster & Smith, of Galt, has whom such a thing as a conscience is un-INSTRUCTIONS TO THE JURY.

Judge Van Fleet read the statutory charge to the jury in a clear voice and impressive manner, concluding as follows:

Judge Van Fleet read the statutory charge to the jury in a clear voice and impressive manner, concluding as follows:

Now, gentlemen, in submitting this case to you I desire once again to admonish you as to your most solemn and important duty as juross. You are to take this case and finally determine it from a fair and impartial consideration of the evidence, and that alone; and remember, gentlemen, that nothing is evidence before you in any sense excepting that which has been adverted and the street of the content of the evidence, and that alone; and remember, gentlemen, that nothing is evidence before you in any sense excepting that which has been adverted and the street of the content of the public or of the street of the content of the public press, common rumor, or otherwise, calculated in any manner to affect your judgment in this case, is not evidence, and must, under the law and manner to affect your judgment in this case, is not evidence, and must, under the law and manner to affect your judgment in this case, is not evidence, and must, under the law and manner to affect by you, for any purpose whether the law and manner to affect by you, for any purpose whether the law and manner to affect by you, for any purpose whether the law and manner to affect by you, for any purpose whether the law and the street of the first place, and that he property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had business of the suit, and that the property had been dealed the suit of the su one connected with him.

Sentiments of sympathy or pity for this defendant or his relatives it is as absolutely necessary for you to discard from your minds in giving your verdict as any other extraneous matter. It is to be regretted that the results of crime when committed usually fall not alone upon the offender, but with a heavy hand upon the innocent relatives and friends connected with him; but a tender consideration for the latter cannot be permitted to weigh against a just and faithful administration of the law. Nor are considerations of mercy to find lodgment with the jury. Mercy does not lie with you, but must be looked for elsewhere. What is demanded of you is a just and true verdict, having for its foundation the evidence in the case, and that alone. And it is only by such a verdict that the law can be vindicated. For such a verdict, gentlemen, you are answerable not only to this defendant and the records. agust and faithful administration of the law. Nor are considerations of mercy to find lodgment with the jury. Mercy does not lie with you, but must be looked for elsewhere. What is demanded of you is a just and true verdict, having for its foundation the evidence in the case, and that alone. And it is only by such a verdict, gentlemen, you are answerable not only to this defendant and the people, but to your consciences and your God.

The human conscience is in my judgment the direct instrument of our Creator in detecting us in wrong, and if we go astray, sooner or later it will find us out, and bring us to account, no matter how successfully we may evade the eye of our fellow-men. Render such a verdict in this case, gentlemen, that each one of you throughout your after life may awaken in the still watches of the night with no troublesome question between yourself and your conscience as to anything growing out of that verdict.

If you do that you will have done your whole duty in this important case.

Meihling, the strong man, and Eugene Van Court, champion amateur light-weight, both of the Olympic Club, wrestled catch-as-catch-can. Van Court, of course, had not an "earthly show" with Meihling. Both proved that they are canable men, but so ill-matched that interest in the contest, even as an exhibition, was destroyed. Each was given a fall.

Corbett and John Donaldson, of Minneapolis, sparred four rounds. Corbett was warmly received, and made a fine appeariant Peroration. Only a fair audience greeted Professo Gayley, of the State University, at the Congregational Church last night to hear his recital before the Sacramento Lecture Association of the incidents of the Irish campaign for home rule in Ireland in 1886. but they greeted him in a way of which he nust have been proud.

It is a for-tunate thing, the speaker said, that the cause of Ireland was in the hands of an Irishman not given to Irish exaggeration in speech. Parnell was, above all things, careful and exact in speech.

The eighty-five Irish leaders of the party were described as men of self-restraint, living constantly under a high sense of responsibility, and were avouched by the speaker as the cleanest body of men in thought and private speech it had ever been his fortune to know. Not one evil story or impure ex-pression had he heard from their lips in all his association with them. He closed with the following brilliant peroration:

The Monument to His Memory to be veiled Saturday. P. E. Platt, the President of the Board of Trade, came down from El Dorado county yesterday and gave a reporter an interview ast evening. He visited Coloma the first of the week and saw the Marshall Monument which is to be unveiled Saturday. He says it is one of the grandest pieces of work of its character upon the coast, and reflects great credit on the Commission who had it erected. The statue itself is of bronze, and is 11½ feet in hight. This rests upon a granite pedestal 31 feet in hight, which makes the monument 42½ feet high.

Mr. Platt says El Dorado county never looked better. The hills are green, the flowers bloom in profusion, the roads were never better, and the Coloma people are making preparations to receive and entertain their friends on Saturday. They will provide eatables for all that may come, and it is estimated that 5,000 people will be present.

An excursion train will run from here.

The rate to Placerville will be $4, and transportation from there to Coloma by team $2, making $6 for the round trip.

IMPORTED SATEENS.

Sunny France supplies the world with the best Sateens it gets, and for several reasons.

The silk-like surface comes from the use of Sea Island cotton, the finest spinning cotton known, and it is said that the air and water in France are specially suited in the handling of its delicate fibers.

An unusual amount of patient, painstaking effort is required in the manufacture of Sateens, and in France such labor is plentiful and cheap.

Probably the chief reason, however is that the French lead all nations in color printing and designing. Their resources in that direction seem inexhaustible. Some one has spoken of them as a "nation of artists."

Our collection of patterns includes perhaps a hundred kinds, in the choicest colorings, at 35 cents. Fine American Sateens, that can hardly be told from the French, 25 cents.

ANXIOUS TO FIGHT. Joe McAuliffe Says He is Not Afraid of

Sullivan. New York, April 30th .- Joe McAuliffe of California, arrived in town with his manager, Billy Madden, Tuesday. Billy Madden, in an interview, says of him: "He has fought nine battles and has lost only one, and that one was with Peter Jackson. He has tried, and I have tried to get on a second go with Jackson, but we have failed. No man on the Pacific slope will meet him, so we have come East to try and get a fight on if possible. While in Chicago I offered every inducement possible to Parson Davies to get on a match with Peter Jackson, but all to no purpose. I was willing to make a match of any number of rounds, but Davies said it was impossible and that their arrangements would not permit them accommodate it.

"McAuliffe in a few days will challenge and in a few weeks my head was almost bald. I tried many remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, after using only a part of the con-tents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."—T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky. "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turnin gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."— Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass. "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio. "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the natural color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes, N. Y. "My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head. After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three months, he had a fine growth of
